PHILADELPHIA BANKING.

Which Even Philadelphia Lawyers Cannot Straighten Out.

BOSTON, June 2.—Experts were still hard at work at the books of the suspended Shadwell Bank this afternoon, trying to evolve order out of chaos. It does not appear that the books, however, the larger grew the deficit, until it seemed that it would reach far into the hundreds of thousands. One of the experts, who is employed in the town bank, gave up in despair this afternoon, saying that it would be almost impossible to straighten the accounts, and the possible loss would be very great.

The auditing committee of the board of directors of the bank compared some of the depositor's books with the ledgers this afternoon and were horrified to find a difference of $1,400 for one day—that is $1,400 was received in a single day, which was not entered upon the books of the bank. Further investigation showed the greatest difficulty, but even if this rate of deficit continues the loss will be much larger than the directors thought.

NEWS IN THE CAPITOL.

The Action of a Boston Political Club of Color.

BOSTON, June 2.—The colored political club in the eleventh ward of this city had adopted resolutions thanking President Cleveland for his frank and frank declaration of the democratic party of Massachusetts. By withholding the commission of J. L. Meade, who was the head and front of the outrages committed on our race in Copiah county.

These resolutions will be sent to the president with the assurance that the organization will support him in his efforts to secure the reorganization, and the significance of this is apparent from the fact that the president of the club, Mr. Holley, has long been quite a prominent leader among the republicans in this city.

THE INDIAN OUTRAGES.

The Troops Still Following the Hostile Apaches.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 2.—The Call to-day published the following dispatch, received yesterday by General Pope, commanding the Pacific division, from General Crook, in Arizona:

FOR RAYARD, May 31.—Have just arrived. I find there are eight regiments of troops out after the Indians. They have been here for a long time. No reports have been received from any of the troops since the 28th. The Indians have killed a number of people and committed many outrages. The country is bad. Everything indicates trouble similar to the Victoria outbreak, and that it will be very difficult to suppress. The Indians are numerous and their numbers seem to be such as was commonary under the circumstances.

The troops following the renegade Indians have gone from the Apache, on the headwaters of the Gila river, are reported as having captured the main portion of the band, including the squaws, and are now enroute for Apache, with their prisoners. It is supposed that only about fifty all told got away to Mexico. A small band are supposed to be in the mountains north of here, but their number is not known. The most alarming feature of the present situation is that a large proportion of the sick are critically ill.

PASSENGER COLLECTION.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 2.—[Special.]—A passenger train on the Georgia division of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad collided with a freight at Chattanooga to-night, and both engines were badly demolished. The passengers narrowly escaped. It was caused by mislaid switch.

THE IRON STRIKERS.

A Belief That the Differences Can be Arranged.

NEW YORK, June 2.—General Grant slept seven hours last night, and both Dr. Douglas and Colonel Fred Grant stated this morning that the general was feeling rested after his sleeplessness of Sunday night.

Dr. Douglas said this afternoon that the swelling of the glands of General Grant's throat had so far abated that the parts were now examined with greater ease than at any time since the general's serious illness. The patient this week has eaten salads, asparagus and steak in very moderate quantity. Dr. Douglas expects the general will have left the city before the end of the week, if he recovers.

He will be conveyed by boat to Albany, where special arrangements will be made for the rest of the journey. Colonel Grant to night said his father had passed a quiet day to-day. He suffered less pain than on Monday. He seemed brighter. "His look is more entire than when he now makes and colonel Grant, who has no son, is more amiable than otherwise, for father. I don't see that there is a reaction after completion of his work, though marked by periods of a week at a time. I don't know but there is a diminution of strength and increased feebleness. He is growing thinner as to his flesh. He is very quiet to-night."

THE DAY IN MACON.

EVENTS TRANSPURING IN THE CENTRAL CITY.

Another Educational Institution to be Opened—The Chamber of Commerce—Supposed Attempt at Forgery—Stealing Just for Fun—Personal and General News.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—It is learned to-day that a movement is on foot to organize and open a first-class military academy in Macon. It is understood that the leading spirits in the enterprise are two well known teachers of Savannah, who already have such an institution in operation in that city.

The plan as developed is to erect handsome buildings on the bluf just above Rose Hill cemetery on the Ocmulgee river. The site in question is exactly suited to the purpose intended, being unsurpassed in this region for natural beauty, and being much like the country around the United States military academy at West Point. The East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia railroad passes between the bluf and the river, the affording easy access to the railroad.

The movement to organize the school upon the West Point model, and to make the course of study more complete and thorough than that of any other educational institution in the southern states.

The gentlemen at the head of the enterprise have been uniformly successful in their profession, and it is said that they will make extensive use of the central position of Macon and its good health.

It is understood that the enterprise will assume definite shape in a few weeks.

The Chamber of Commerce.

AN IMPORTANT ADDITION TO THE PROGRESS OF MACON.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—Much interest was developed among the business men of Macon to-day in the proposed reorganization of the chamber of commerce.

The merchants showed that the meetings to-morrow morning will be well attended, and that a large number of members will be secured.

Among the merchants the feeling seems to be that the time has come to reorganize, and that it is time for a close union among business men, for their own interests and for those of the city.

Mr. E. C. Morris, one of the brightest members of the senior class of Mercer University, will go to Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, in October to pursue his studies for the law at an analytic class.

Mr. Charles Lane, Professor of Chemistry at the Georgia Institute, is very ill.

Mrs. Sam Maynor, wife of Sheriff Weston, and Mrs. Kate Pace, wife of Hawkinsville, were at the Lawyer house yesterday.

Mr. J. N. Lamar and Mrs. T. H. Latimer, of Milledgeville, were at the Lawyer house yesterday.

On Saturday the 25th of May last, James Norwood and David Dwyer, of Bibb county, came from the Cobb county chain gang. They have not been heard of since. Norwood was from Bibb county, and was sent to the chain gang for six months. Dwyer was from Fulton county, he had served three years. Both were from Randolph county, and was sent to the chain gang for six months from the house.

Recently Henry Davis is presented to Sheriff Weston with the following note:

"Dear Sir: I, George J. Johnson, Sheriff of Houston County, Courthouse, Macon, Ga., pay

Henry Davis, the sum of one dollar and change to expenses in arresting James Norwood and David Dwyer, received May 23, 1885. George Saitch, section keeper and detective."

Mr. Thompson Howell, son of Mr. Eli Howell, died at his home, three miles from Talapoosa Friday night, of typhoid fever. Mr. Howell was one of Harlan's representative young farmers, and was highly respected by every one.

Milledgeville, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—A negro woman, named Trawick, dropped dead yesterday while working in the field on Tom Pugh's place.

The Wife Excluded.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—Among the public sales at the courthouse to-day, the ordinary disposal of a house and lot in the city for $2,500. The sale was made for J. A. Foster, administrator on the estate of Mrs. E. A. Foster.

J. J. Finley, guardian of the children of J. W. Finley, one hundred acres of land in Rutland, Georgia, were sold for $2,500.

Sherriff Weston had a lot of land, the property of A. P. Collins, for $1,000. Prof. J. R. Glenn, for $1,000, and several other lots. The lot was sold to satisfy a $1,000 against Collins, obtained on the suit of the state against him as surety on a bond of H. J. Peter, the former tax collector of Bibb county.

Waiting for Her Daughter.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—Yesterday afternoon, Clem Johnson, a colored woman from Eatonton, came to Macon in quest of her daughter, Minnie. The latter, who is a good looking mulatto, was enticed from her home by the mistress of a negro den in this city, and has been kept hid ever since. The girl's mother was in great distress, as she could not find her daughter to-day, and she broke the aid of the police and search every disreputable house in the city.

Inspecting the New Jail.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—Moses O. Olson, W. D. Brown, and W. H. Hubbard, of Montgomery, Alabama, arrived here to-day to inspect Bibb county's new jail. The gentlemen are the jail commissioners at Montgomery, and are preparing to erect a building similar to that in which the sheriff of Eatonton sits. They will escort the party over the jail, pointing out its numerous advantages. The visitors were highly pleased, and will doubtless make a contract with Mr. Fred to erect their building.

Capers—Clark.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—Mr. F. W. Clark, a prominent young lawyer of Augusta, and Miss Little Clark, daughter of Rev. Dr. J. A. Clark, were married at 6 o'clock this afternoon at the parsonage of the First-street Methodist church. Mr. Clark was accompanied to this city by his father, General F. W. Capers, of Clarendon, and Mr. R. L. Pierce, of Augusta. The couple left for their home in Augusta to-night.

Meeting of the County Commissioners.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—The Bibb county commissioners had a meeting at the courthouse this morning. Very little business was transacted. F. J. M. Dally, who had hopped a road through his property near the First-street bridge, under the jurisdiction of the commissioners' roads. The petition was granted. Study of the First-street bridge, and the purchase of the cemetery in the section of the city. Action on the petition was postponed.

Mount de Sales Academy.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—The Constitution paid a visit to Mount de Sales academy this morning and found the sisters and the pupils busily engaged in preparations for the commencement exercises of this splendid institution.

The exact date of commencement was not determined, but it will be sometime about the 25th of June first. The exercises this year will be unusually interesting, and will attract visitors from all parts of the state.

Fight Over a Child.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—This morning Amanda Ross, Amanda Fletcher, and Kate Griswold, all colored, had a general knock down row on account of certain unpleasant remarks made by one of the ladies about a child of Emma Tracy's.

Officer Martin stopped the fuss and summoned all the parties to appear at recorder's court to-morrow morning.

Bibb Superior Court.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—In the superior court to-day the case of Jerry Mattox vs. the city of Macon, was first called. Mattox, a negro, no fell into a cavity in the ground, hit which Mr. Willburn was erecting on the corner of Fourth and Arch streets about three months ago, breaking his leg. He brought suit against the city for $100 damages. The jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff.

The case of Georgia E. Crockett vs. E. Crockett was called, but was not concluded when the hour for adjournment arrived.

Willie Stevenson to the Fore Again.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—Willie Stevenson, a celebrated, much excused sneak thief, of African descent, was arrested, June 1st, for larceny, and was tried on a charge of four or five days ago, and was sentenced to one hundred days on the chain-gang. He was sent out to the gang at Bailey's mills last Wednesday. This morning he escaped.

Death of Mrs. J. P. Bond.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—Mrs. J. P. Bond died at her residence in Twiggs county, twenty miles from this city, at seven o'clock this morning. She was the mother of Mrs. J. A. Christian, and the wife of Mr. T. W. Bond, of Macon. Her remains will be interred at Bond's mills, in Twiggs county, to-morrow.

Mr. Ed. McLaren Better.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—Mr. Ed. McLaren was thought to be better to-day, and strong hopes of his recovery are now entertained.

Personal and Otherwise.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—Lawn tennis is the most popular sport of the young ladies who live on Tenth street.

The Macomlin club, social, is open to all ex-members of the Atlanta club, on the 11th inst.

The game between the Macomlin and the Augustans to-morrow will be witnessed by a large crowd of lovers of the sport.

Mr. E. E. Morris, one of the brightest members of the senior class of Mercer University, will go to Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, in October to pursue his studies for the law at an analytic class.

The meeting to-morrow will be held at ten o'clock. Officers and committee will be appointed to meet the constituents, to lay the foundation stone, and to secure a permanent place of meeting.

The amateur baseball in Savannah, Georgia, press association, is in the city, and the Macomlin, will be ready to meet them.

Mr. J. W. Ray, chairman of the sub-committee on the 11th inst., will be present at the next meeting of the board of directors of the public library.

The university and Mount de Sales academy will probably have their commencement exercises at the Academy of Music.

Mrs. Sam Maynor and Miss Mand Waterman, of Columbus, and Miss Kate Pace, wife of Hawkinsville, were at the Lawyer house yesterday.

Mrs. N. Lamar and Mrs. T. H. Latimer, of Milledgeville, were at the Lawyer house yesterday.

Milledgeville, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—A negro woman, named Trawick, dropped dead yesterday while working in the field on Tom Pugh's place.

The Wife Excluded.

MACON, Ga., June 2.—[Special.]—Our farmers wear a smile to-day. The clouds have disappeared and the invigorating sun shines forth in all his glory. The wheat crop will be short in more respects than one; the stalks will be very low and it is thin on the ground. Cotton is looking up, although there is a complaint about the cotton bug destroying it. Corn is looking splendid. The late rain has caused it to grow off spindly; it is generally thought that it will be a good crop. Clover, one of our main products, has been cut off by the dry weather. It is now ready for the market.

The meadow grass continues until to-morrow morning.

A meeting of the city council to-night sanitary inspector, Wm. Stephen, was granted leave of absence to attend the annual meeting of the Georgia Sanitary Association in Atlanta.

HEMORRHOIDS.

Blind, Bleeding and Itching, Positively Cured by Cuticura.

A warm bath with Cuticura Soap and a strong application of Cuticura will instantly alleviate the intense itching of the most aggravated case of Itching Piles. This treatment, combined with small doses of Cuticura Resin, three times per day, to remove all extraneous bowel, and control constipation and remove the cause, will cure, Blind, Bleeding, and Itching Piles in all other remedies and even physicians fail.

ITCHING PILES.
I was taken, for the first time in my life, with Blind Piles, so severe that I could hardly keep on my feet. I used various remedies for three weeks, when the disease took the form of Itching Piles, which were worse. By the advice of a good man I tried the Cuticura. One application relieved the Itching, and I was soon cured. I wish to record this, in the cases of Itching Piles, the price of the Cuticura is no account. From an unsolicited quarter.—O. C. KIRBY.

THE CONSTITUTION,

Atlanta, Georgia.

ATLANTA, JUNE 3, 1885.

VICTOR Hugo had a bad opinion of General Grant. In one of his poems he abused the general without mercy.

TEMPERANCE is making rapid progress in England. At a meeting recently held in Birmingham a congratulatory address was forwarded to Lord Branwell for his "able advocacy of moderate drinking," and expressing the hope that his lordship might live long to practice what he preached.

SULLIVAN, the slugger, admitted on the witness stand, the other day, that he might have been occasionally intoxicated, but denied ever being drunk. There may be a distinction between the two in Boston, but down this way the headaches and the police court fines are just the same in both cases.

It has come to light that Senator Edmunds has been summoned before the British house of lords to testify concerning the marriage laws of the colony of New York in 1772. No doubt Senator Edmunds was selected on account of his newspaper reputation as a great lawyer.

In point of fact his testimony on the anti-slavery marriage laws of New York may not be worth as much as that of many plodding book worms and country lawyers in New York whose names are not known beyond the village in which they live. But Edmunds will not cross the seas to tell the British law lords that he is not posted. He is a bright man and knows how to cram when the emergency requires it. By the time his testimony is called for he will be thoroughly posted.

The Mexicans explain their prejudice against Americans by saying that they can never forget the atrocities perpetrated by General Taylor's army. It is little strange that they entertain no ill will against the French. Many Frenchmen who drifted to Mexico in Maximilian's time have remained there and are doing well as merchants. The French and other foreigners find it impossible to change Mexican fashions. The style of architecture in this country has been the same for centuries, and is not likely to change for centuries to come. The people have a mania for building everything in a hollow square, and it is even said that a Mexican officer finding his force reduced to a single man, commanded him to form himself into a hollow square.

BULLOCK AND THE BOGUS BONDS.

We printed in yesterday's CONSTITUTION a card from ex-Governor Bullock, in which he undertakes to explain his connection with Clews in the effort now making by that worthy to prevent the savings banks of New York state from investing in Georgia bonds, and to injure the credit of the state generally.

In the course of his card the ex-governor mildly alludes to the fraudulent bonds issued during his administration as "disallowed" or "outlawed" bonds, and everything he says is in the nature of a special plea in their behalf. It is strange, but nevertheless true, that with the exception of the attorneys who are working purely for a conditional fee, no one in all this broad land but Bullock and Clews can be found to defend these bogus bonds.

In 1872, the legislature of Georgia—and not a "political body," as ex-Governor Bullock says—investigated the frauds connected with the issue of these bogus bonds. It was there, in that body, that his official action was attacked. Why was he not ready to respond? For five years following he and Clews could have had a hearing, but they made no movement and no effort. Their action during this time was not such as would govern good business men who had issued and sold honest obligations.

On the contrary, their attitude and their conduct were precisely what one would expect from parties to a fraudulent transaction. When this bogus bond matter was fresh in the minds of the people, and when on every side could be found evidences of rascality and fraud, ex-Governor Bullock was not so much interested in the "honor" of his state as he seems to be at this moment. Why did he not respond and prove what he claims he can now prove? Simply because he knew it to be impossible.

After waiting five years to hear from Bullock and Clews in regard to these bonds—after giving them ample opportunity to come forward with any facts or proofs of facts that might be in their possession—the people of this state, in convention assembled (for the purpose of framing an organic law for the commonwealth) reviewed all the evidence in respect to the fraudulent issue and sale of these bogus bonds, and, by special ordinance, very wisely put it beyond the power of anybody to hear or determine any question relative to these bonds.

This has proven the wisdom of this disposition of the master, for it is observed that the slight allusion to or gossip about the transaction that was proven fraudulent and so branded fifteen years ago, the chief actors come to the front as swift defenders of Georgia's honor; and, under the pretense of possessing strong testimony, which they are still careful to conceal, they openly, but in an indirect manner, attempt to perpetrate a wrong on the state by injuring its credit.

This editor of the Savannah News will probably spend the summer in Atlanta. There is nothing more invigorating than our mountain air.

It seems that the great republic of France will not allow a handful of idiots to display red flags.

EDWARD MCCLURE, of the Philadelphia Times gave a crowd of high school boys some good advice the other day. He said that education to be made effective must be supplemented with industry.

Webster's orations, Brigham's speeches, Gray's "Elegy," and all the great literature and art were not so much the product of education or genius as they were of industry.

If the children of the wealthy are not trained to industry, they will become indolent loafers and mashes. Educated men who do not know how to work in the counting room, the shop and the field, may go without employment, but the man who knows how to make himself useful in any of the great industries of the age will never wait long for his hands and cries, "Prove it!"

We have no doubt that if the beneficiaries of the Yucco frauds were alive to-day they could make out a very clear case of fair dealing—equally as strong as the case of Clews and Bullock say they can make out in regard to these fraudulent bonds. But the historical Yucco crime, dark as it is in the memory of the people of this state, would take on a still blacker hue if its beneficiaries were to attempt to embarrass the state's credit to accomplish their purposes.

We suspect good people, whenever and wherever we see them trying to do wrong that good may result; but what must be the opinion of honest men when, after Georgia has recovered from the injury to her credit, inflicted under a republican administration, and can float a three million and a half loan at a premium, they behold the parties to the very fraudulent transaction that hurt the state, ready and anxious to still further injure the credit of the state in order that their illegal acts may be pronounced pure and proper? Nowhere outside the dominions of Satan would such a vindication be of service, even if it were possible.

The people of Georgia have much to be thankful for. Their genial climate, their mineral resources, their prosperity, the state's good credit, as good as any in the union, are all the subjects of continue congratulation; but, above all, we are thankful that it is not necessary to have Georgia's bonds "listed" in order that they may, in mercantile parlance, be ready for "good delivery." The only governor of Georgia that thought it was necessary to have them "listed" has lived to see that an evil delivery was made of them, and has likewise lived to see his name connected with fraudulent transactions in such a manner that he feels that some vindication of his conduct is necessary fifteen years after the matter has been finally and fairly adjudicated.

It is a well known fact that there are but few criminals in the penitentiaries of the world who do not believe they would be acquitted if they could get another trial. This fauks belief grows out of the fact that they do not regard the crimes they have committed from the standpoint of society. It would be a favor to let these criminals be tried before tribunals of their own selection, for they would be satisfied with no result that proved them guilty.

Georgia's record on these fraudulent bonds is made up. The subject has been thoroughly investigated, judgment has been rendered, and the case is res adjudicata.

The editor of the Philadelphia Press has a good deal of leisure time on his hands. He has discovered that the Chicago Times recently had a column editorial about something or other.

The civil service commission is rapidly making arrangements to run the entire country. The civil service law is a good one, but the commission will have to be wretched with it.

The Utica Herald says that Miss Cleveland, the president's sister, writes poetry. The Herald is evidently trying to destroy the autonomy of the democratic party.

The Brooklyn Union, in apparent forgetfulness of the fact that the Rev. Sam Jones conducted a revival in Dr. Talmage's tabernacle several months ago, says: "Brother Jones should come east. He would draw well in Brooklyn. Between him and Brother Talmage the sinners would be hopelessly demoralized—if they are not so already; while, as for the devil himself, he would be put to instant and ignominious flight, should a not unnatural but fatal curiosity tempt him to cross the bridge from New York. Rev. Jas. Jones would be a godsend to the reporters, likewise, and we are not sure that he wouldn't be just the man to conduct Sunday service at Manhattan Beach. Then, should he happen to fall into his old haunts to tackle Boston, he would get a copy of Baxter's Saint Rest against a eucalyptus deck, if he wanted to preach on the Common, he would simply preach on the Common, police or no police. Let Brother Jones come east."

ONE PHASE OF CITY LIFE.

A growing evil in the large northern cities is the freedom allowed young girls. In Boston, New York and Philadelphia it is not uncommon, especially on Sunday nights, to see thousands of girls and young women without escorts promenading the principal streets. The following paragraph from a long article in the Philadelphia Times will give the reader an idea of the street scene by gas light in our large cities:

VANDERBILT has made a tour of Ireland. It is thought that he proposes to buy the Island and put a stop to all the racket that has been going on there for so many years.

ANOTHER revolution is about to break out in Mexico—a sort of slugging match between liberal and conservative.

MODERN DIALOGUE.

What Must Be Written Nowdays to Be Fashionably Realistic in Stories.

From Dr. Fiske's Magazine.

It is a dangerous experiment to pay a man a fancy price for a little work, with the expectation of inciting him to greater industry. The Harpers tried that with Thomas Bailey Aldrich, paying him $1,200 for a short poem. The result was that the poet quit writing almost entirely. It is to be hoped that he had Tennyson received a thundering price for his poem on the Common.

ELLA WHEELER WILSON is writing her first novel. It contains any of the allusions of her Poems of Passion; it will be too delicate for general readers.
